Course summary

Teachers tend not to think of themselves as leaders but increasingly they are having to play a leadership role in the lives of their learners. In the words of Henry Adams “A teacher affects eternity: no-one can tell where the influence stops”. The word education (from the Latin educare) is the process of drawing out the latent talents of the individual. Leadership is exactly the same process and involves the same skill-set and personal attributes. This course will draw out your own leadership qualities and therefore enable you to be all the more effective as a teacher. This course involves extensive use of reflection, collaboration, creation, interaction, mediation, and leadership.
