Target audience

Teachers of English and all languages who would like to experience, get ideas about, and try out how they can develop their learners' global skills along with their language skills while dealing with global issues we all have to face in the 21st century.

You will need an intermediate level of English (B1 or above) to participate in this course.

Course summary

Nowadays, all educators are responsible for creating opportunities for their learners to acquire and develop their global skills so that they can succeed in the globalised world of the 21st century. Language teachers are in an especially good position to do so.

In this course, we will focus on how we can develop learners' global skills in the same process with developing their language skills while working with topics that are of great importance globally. This approach creates a rich learner experience, leads to increased motivation and a lot of meaningful language use.

You will experience how this method works with different aims, and will adapt and create ideas for your own teaching context.
